Description
Dozuki is a technical manual wiki tool (used by a growing list of OSHW projects). One very interesting possibility for integration is ODE plugin for Dozuki. Managers would give ODE a Dozuki url and then ODE would show the Dozuki manual under a "manuals" tab in the project.

Should ODE look at adopting their markup language as an alternative (or secondary option) to Redmine's?

I don't think so. The interpreter is proprietary, so we would have to completely reimplement their system. This is really more for users that like how their manuals render and want to embed DokuWiki manuals in ODE projects.

Estimate is just for a module which embeds Dozuki content in ODE site (like a module level version of YouTube plugin)
